MANHATTANVILLE COLLEGE
OF THE SACRED HEART
NEW YORK 27, NEW YORK

Dedication

To our parents we are proud to dedicate the 1948 issue of THE TOWER. Their love and sacrifice made it possible for us to be here at Manhattanville where we receive an education based on those Catholic principles which they, in sending us, already understood. For we realize here the necessity for unity among men, a unity that exists solely in oneness with God through membership in the Mystical Body of Christ. We hope that our years at Manhattanville may bring the appreciation of these doctrines and be the foundation for our full participation in a rich Catholic life.

In Tribute

To those who have contributed so much to the education of the complete person, Manhattanville's goal, go our deepest thanks. Mother O'Byrne's messages to the "Natives" laid before us a pattern of joyous giving by which we might become more fully incorporated in the Mystical Body, while Mother Weston's assurances that "first things come first" proved that we really could get more than twenty-four hours out of a day. To them and to the faculty as a whole, we give thanks for understanding and wisdom surpassing that imparted at class and for their interest in every phase of college life.

Seniors

Where will we find the "Manhattanville Girl"? She is all generations from "The Youth Movement" to "The Old Ladies." But it is the Class of '48 especially which means the "Manhattanville Girl" to us. "Prudence, the Spirit of '48" caught her originality, her humor and her whole-hearted love of life. Strong and loyal, she puts her high ideals into practice, and the Senior record of undertakings brought to splendid success shows the fruits of unity and hard work. A challenge to all the rest are "The heights that have been won."

"I shall go softly all my years."—Isaias

"Lee" is an artist with variations. True, she is president of the Art Club, and her posters are everywhere, but her artistry unites with her love of music to produce a unique thesis; her even temper is not at all temperamental; in short, she is Manhattanville's ideal artist.

Irene Bartok

King George's Road, Fords, N. J.
Columbia University, New York, N. Y.
Major: Music Education

"The quiet mind is richer than a crown."—Robert Greene

Irene moves in a world of music dominated by the concerts, symphonies and Gregorian chant she understands and loves so well. Her rich alto voice has been the unfailing support of Glee Club and Madrigals, and, as a symbol of her generous and mature personality, assures her success in the field of musical education.

"Her air, her manners, all who saw admired."—Shakespeare

Following Manhattanville's lead, the New York Region of the N.F.C.C.S. saw more in "Angie" than a tall, graceful girl with a soft voice and a persuasive manner. They recognized an untiring interest in student affairs that had to express itself in action. From Manhattanville to Toledo, she proved herself an intelligent and dependable leader, and a girl always true to her own high ideals.

"The eternal feminine draws us on."—Goethe

Ever since she came to Manhattanville, Maryanne has had to hold her own among many "Yankees," for her soft drawl was a natural target. But her gracious ways so charmed us, that we almost changed our blue coats for grey. A Connecticut Yankee in Tennessee could not have held a more distinctive niche than Maryanne has at Manhattanville.

"Where did you learn all this goodly speech?
It is extempore from my mother wit."—Shakespeare

"The funniest girl in the class" is Manhattanville's unanimous opinion of Helen. Hilarious experiences at Steeplechase Park, "deep interest" in Chinese lore, and the benefits of rat-traps; it's always something different. From test tubes to technical, all will miss the touch of this original and merry scientist.

"I have yet to encounter an insurmountable barrier."—James Allen

Peggy is like a pendulum; she swings from Debating Club to Interracial, but always comes to rest on her "ducky talk." We love, too, those other constants in her nature—her undeviating frankness and her "Good basic Lancaster common sense." She still does not admit to calling herself "Piglet" but we'll miss you anyway, "Piglet" Brown.

"Wherever man suffers, or woman may soothe, there her hand!"—Lytton

Enthusiasm and perseverance formed an unbeatable combination in Diane. With wholehearted cooperation, she threw herself into every undertaking from nurses' training to collecting glassware, and found that the more she gave, the more she loved it. An abundance of worthwhile plans promise a happy and eventful future for a girl who knows where she is going.

"As good natured a soul as ever trod on shoe of leather."—Cervantes

Where there's a piano, there too will be clamoring for Shirley. She says it's only in the Key of F but she produces rhythm that would rival anything 52nd Street has to offer. As much a part of her as music, puns and an unfailing gaiety is a capable and singularly gifted mind for which no challenge is too great.

"Who knows what magic captive lies within the golden compass of a violin." Anon

Rosemary's love of music and her magic violin are well known at Manhattanville. The casual artistry with which she executes the most difficult composition belies the long hours spent combining an accelerated college program with a budding musical career. We look forward to the time we'll be able to say, "We knew her when . . ."

"Exceeding wise, fair-spoken, and persuading."—Shakespeare

An inquisitive mind and rectitude of will go hand in hand with Phyllis. Hers is the shy candour and penetrating depth that all who see admire; and admiring, love. In Phyllis, we found a stimulating and competent leader of N.S.A. activities, both on the national scale and here on "The Hill." She knows where she is going and is sure to get there.

"But thou wilt brave me with these saucy terms."—Shakespeare

Dancing eyes betray Liliane's solemn teasing which a mathematican's logic cannot suppress. An incredible capacity for ice-cream, a champion's skill in snowball fights, a surprising, piquant way—these are her "proficiencies." And yet, she is precise as only the French are precise. She has an aura of Parisian romance and New York sophistication that makes her one of our favorite cosmopolites.

"Pat's" off-campus popularity was constantly in evidence by the ringing of the telephone on second floor Founders', and the accompanying shout for "Pa-at." Her energy and enthusiasm made her equally liked on campus. Her "line" was always "busy" with Student Relief or weekend plans. We hope she'll dial Manhattanville often in the future.

"Bid me discourse, I will enchant thine ear."—Shakespeare

Laurel's charming "Maggie Shand" gave us an inkling of what we can expect from her prospective musical drama. With definite musical and dramatic talents, Laurel is a harmony of personality as well as of movement and note. A love of fun, a willingness to share her time and talents, and a true sense of values will always keep Laurel in demand.

Pretty is as pretty does, and Eileen fulfills both parts of this. Voice and features are her fortune; her gaiety is musical and constant. Practice teaching made her scarce for a while, but she is proof that Brooklyn has more to offer than baseball.

"Gentle in manner, firm in reality."—Anon.

A pint of originality, a peck of enthusiasm, a pound of common sense flavoured with a pinch of sunny humour—that's Manhattanville's recipe for its favorite "Cookie." As head of Welfare, "Cookie" added gracious dignity to our ways, both by word and example. The song on her lips and the depth of her mind, revealed "Cookie's" full "Good measure."

And her spirit comes at will."—J. E. Carpenter

Merry blue eyes hint that Mary Jane has kissed the Blarney Stone and her gamin grin will quickly capture the hearts of her future pupils on the "ould sod." "Ruddigore" confirmed our opinion that she can sing her way into anyone's heart and we wonder if any "blue jacket" can surpass "Richard's" hornpipe. No matter what she does, we know Mary Jane will have the best of luck.

"She that was ever fair and never proud,
Had tongue at will, and yet was never loud."—Shakespeare

From the Canals of Venice to the corridors of Manhattanville came "Roz," bringing her predilection for music and the ballet, Browning, Shelley, and most Italian authors. Modern as the new hem line, she plans to study Foreign Service at Georgetown, and we know she'll be as popular there as she has been here.

Classes

College years go all too quickly, but in each we find some expression of the "Manhattanville Girl's" development. As a Freshman she "finds" herself, her class and her college. With a heavy schedule of "requireds," the Sophomore learns how to use her time and broadens her interests in many fields. Junior year, and she is an "upperclassman," specializing in chosen subjects. She assumes responsibility which ripens into Senior leadership and the realization of Christian principles. Though the years are divided, some aspect of the "Manhattanville Girl" is found in each, uniting the college in love and loyalty.

"And Now Tomorrow"

The Class of '48 has a history unparalleled in the annals of Manhattanville. From the beginning, it was a class of extremes. The avalanche of demerits that characterized its first two years gradually ceased and in its stead was revealed '48's maturity of leadership and facility of organization. Under Mother Byles' guidance, these qualities reached their peak during Senior Year.

Our memories of '48 go back to stern, yet rollicking "Senioritas" who initiated us to the ways of the college. Then came their uproarious version of "Green Pastures" complete with "heavenly" fish-fries and sheet-draped angels; Serenades provided an unforgettable evening for the end of the year.

Junior Year saw '48 as upperclassmen efficiently assisting their sister class over the pitfalls that face all Freshmen. The solarium seemed empty without them, but the strains of "Binnorie" still floated to us from the Junior room. Prophecies and the '47 issue of the TOWER emphasized their love of song and flair for the original, while Centenary Year owed much of its success to their generous contributions.

At last the Class of '48 was the Senior Class, whose drive and determination gave birth to a new constitution as well as a new era at Manhattanville. "The Cat and the Canary," that masterpiece of crime and horror, proved their Thespian talents. Finally, it was Graduation Week, and diplomas in hand, the Class of '48 "signed out" for the last time. But they can never "sign out" of our thoughts, for like songs they loved, they will always be "old favorites" at Manhattanville.

"So Little Time"

The satisfaction peculiar to Junior Year was increased for our class with the advent of the Bendix Washers; at last, we were free from the fear of Express strikes. The content of the "Forty-niners," however, was not completely unruffled; questions such as

"Did Karen kill Bjorn Faulkner the night of January sixteenth?"

"Have you chosen your thesis title yet?"

"Whom are you knitting argyles for?"

arose fast and furiously. But such anxious queries could not change the general well-being, the security of Junior status. It was not long after we attained said status that we found ourselves comforting harassed Freshmen sisters with phrases we'd often heard on Mother Weston's lips:

'Don't worry, best thing to do is to go out, relax. Don't cram for them." And though we may still cram a little, at least, we now repeat these words with solemnity, even credence.

Yes, there really is an atmosphere about Junior Year, and we will miss it when we move on to our fourth year. We'll miss the Seniors, too, who, with their sterling leadership, made this year even better for us.

"They Say It's The Hardest Year"

It doesn't seem so long ago that the "Infants" of '50 bedecked with bibs, pigtails, and dolls, bowed meekly to the commands of their "Venerable Ladies." Yet, in the short span of two years, the Class of '50, with its spirit of friendliness and cooperation, has become a captivating part of the college.

Their interest in everybody and everything at Manhattanville was evident from the very beginning. We'll never forget how Anne and Rosie donned their most elegant formals for dinner one night to expell our pre-exam depression. Though Centenary dispensed with class entertainments, they displayed their talents widely in other fields. Centenary chair-carrying was accomplished with a cheerful efficiency that amazed us, while the hordes of Freshmen who invaded the domain of athletics were an added stimulus and support to varsity and class team competition.

With the advent of Sophomore Year, heavier assignments came to besiege the Class of '50. Their frenzied queries about the "Lampmaker of Athens" and "The Three Aspects of the Arthurian Legend" would have melted even the most hardened Survey and English Reading Alumnae. One of the highlights of the year was '50's hilarious presentation of Mrs. Gregory Chant-and-company's jaunt to "Technicality Tech." for a real "football weekend." Written, produced, directed and acted by the Sophomores themselves, it "brought the house down." "Muffie" and the grandstand scene have already become college classics, while "Technicality" and "You've Got To Be a Football Hero" are old favorites in the gym repertoire. Serenades brought the year to a close, and at last the Class of '50 was in the upperclassman bracket. It certainly didn't take the "Infants" long to grow up!

"The New Look"

Our first glimpse of the Class of '51 assured us that the second century had gotten off to a good start. The Freshmen were way ahead with that "New Look"; but the outlook was one familiar and dear, and we felt a certain pride in the way our sister class had made Manhattanville's traditions its own. The day college opened, we saw one of those traditions in action: with a smiling dispatch that quite took our breath away, bags were whisked out of sight and deposited in our rooms before we ourselves knew where we lived.

We scarcely had time to sharpen our pencils before the Freshmen started to make class history faster than it could be written down. After the canine version of "51" was presented to Mother Morgan, there was hazing week, when faculty and students alike were in danger of falling victim to over-zealous "rattletraps." Then came a complete transformation from "wrecks" to "smoothies" for the West Point ball. Judging from frequent invitations, the Cadets seem to be as enthusiastic about the Class of '51 as we are. When the hockey season started, the Freshmen, not "fresh," but very experienced at that traditional game, won the cup from the "Old Ladies' " grasp, and Mother Morgan sat back and showed not the least astonishment when eleven of her class made varsity basketball.

So we cheer the Freshmen as they take the first brave steps into the second century. Under the leadership of Maureen and Joyce, we know they will fulfill Manhattanville's great expectations, of which their record to date is but the bright promise.

Activities

The keynote to the "Manhattanville Girl's" many activities is her vital interest in the world around her. On campus, Student Government, major and minor clubs, as well as class and college projects are a challenge to her abilities and enthusiasm. Other organizations like the U.N., N.S.A., and N.F.C.C.S. keep her in touch with outside interests and cement her relationships to other student bodies. Through all her activities, the "Manhattanville Girl" learns to be an alert and responsible student, and to contribute her share to the welfare of her college and her community.

Children of Mary

Life at Manhattanville, however busy, would be empty without the Vision of Faith; it is this, as Reverend Mother Fitzgerald has shown us, which gives our knowledge and our actions their meaning and value. The Children of Mary are looked to for the fullest possession of this Vision because they, by their Act of Consecration, have willed to live their lives in Its light, and by their prayer and example to bring It into the lives of others. We turn to the Children of Mary for breadth of Christlike charity which encompasses the world, and for a depth of understanding which realizes the worth of a life modeled on that of Our Lady. We see in them leaders "Doing the Truth in Charity" because they have seen, they have believed, and they are ready to share with the world the Vision they have received at Manhattanville.

Student Government

"It is the desire of the students of Manhattanville College that they govern themselves." Thus, our new constitution expresses both the purpose of Student Government and the scope of its activities. To this body, we look for the execution of a two-fold responsibility: the expression of each student's participation through recognition of, as well as protection of her individuality for the well-being of the whole college. Under the combined guidance of Mother O'Gorman, Barbara and Marie, Student Government achieved new efficiency and prestige on the campus. At Manhattanville, we realize that the Student Government room is not just the courtroom of the campus, but the center of an active permeating force which fosters, in the fullest measure, "Loyalty and fidelity to the traditions of the Sacred Heart."

Welfare

As a representative body, Welfare's sphere is unlimited. Its province extends from the library to the tea-room, from the Chapel corridor to the gym. Whether it be safeguarding those precious Bendix washers or admonishing a jean-clad figure, Welfare seeks the good of the college and the individual. Thanks to this organization, a certain graciousness and dignity are maintained in Manhattanville life. This is brought about, not by sternly policing our every move, but by indicating those things which are fitting and explaining those which are not. The final setting of standards is left with us. Welfare bases its work on confidence in the good judgment of the college. Under the leadership of Mother O'Byrne and "Cookie," that work progressed steadily this year towards the achievement of its final end—"The courtesy that is the flower of charity."

Catholic Action

Catholic life, of necessity, means Catholic Action. It is this principle on which Manhattanville bases its participation in the work of the Church. Our Catholic Action program this year (as always) stressed willing service, as well as prayer and example. Teaching catechism in parish schools, pursuing an active Girl Scout program—these are the main fields in which Manhattanville endeavors to spread the precepts of Catholic living. Through study clubs devoted to interracial justice, the missions and the understanding of the liturgy, we realize the tremendous opportunity and need for propagating the mission of Christ throughout the world. What we have learned and done here will be the inspiration for continuing the Church's work in our lives when we leave Manhattanville.

Choir

The choir is unlike any organization in the college. Anyone can belong to it—provided, of course, that she is not a monotone. The ranks are open to all, for the singing of the Mass, Benediction, or Compline. How many times have its loyal members come to choir practice Friday and Saturday nights and then made the supreme effort and arrived to tune up Sunday morning—even afer a VLP! How often has a blind, groggy choir sat in the Lower Lecture room by the light of the morning star brushing up on the Requiem or the Mass of the Sacred Heart! Yet all this has its reward, not only in the two choir teas and the famous trip to Kenwood, but also fulfilling its real purpose which is, as Mother Morgan has so often told us, to give honor and glory to God.

Student Affiliations

"Relief" insures that after knowing what goes on in the world, we do something about it. Many tons of clothes have been collected and the College Room never ceases to be the scene of much sorting and packing. A Bridge Tea and professional fashion show provided one of the most profitable and enjoyable "Relief" functions of the year. Through these and other activities of "Relief," Jane and her helpers lead us with jokes and jingles that really make giving a pleasure.

N.F.C.C.S. concentrated on relief too,—U. S. student aid for students abroad. Since the Regional Relief Chairman is "Angie" Bayo that meant plenty of stir at Manhattanville. A World Premiere and stage show were only part of a vigorous program to raise funds for the progress of Christian education abroad.

N.S.A. Delegate: Phyllis Carbone.

N.S.A.. a new organization for a new century, has not been slow to make its importance felt on the campus, Manhattanville being the Metropolitan Regional Headquarters. Under the leadership of Phyllis Carbone the foundations of future activity and power have been soundly laid.

Every Thursday at one o'clock many "natives" of Manhattanville settle themselves on the windowsills, floor and even the chairs of the Lounge. There they discuss what to them seem the quickest and most just ways to obtain world peace. Thanks to Mary Merrill we have many varied (and often opposing) opinions presented in an orderly way by students who represent the "four corners of the world."

Glee Club

Love of song is a Manhattanville heritage, and from "Adoration to God" through "Harvesting," we found in it enjoyment, and a unity surpassing that of tone. The first surge of Christmas spirit began with the jubilant chords of "Glory to God." In spring, the Upper Glee Club launched another success in "H.M.S. Pinafore," and the Freshman operetta confirmed our suspicions that Mother Morgan had picked another singing class. Besides all this, there were the gala post-concert dances when our Glee Club played hostess to the Manhattan and Georgetown Glee Clubs. The Madrigals too, had an eventful year, with concerts on Long Island and at Bellevue, as well as on the "Hill."

To Mother Morgan's sympathy and sense of humor, to "Ginny's" inspiring leadership and soaring soprano, and to Nancy's efficiency, we owe the elation of work well done.

Debating Club

"Resolved: that the Debating Club shall attain real knowledge of current affairs through the exchange of ideas and discussion of world problems." An audacious resolution, but Manhattanville's rhetoricians, supported by Mother Parton, Mr. McClelland and Sally Ann, were undaunted. And, mastering the intricacies of parliamentary procedure, they accomplished their end, as shown by their stirring public debate on United States and Russian cooperation.

The club also engaged in outside activities such as the Intercollegiate Debate Tournament sponsored by the N.F.C.C.S. Forensic Commission, where it proved its worth in establishing rapport with the entire trend of student thought.

The Freshman Forum, too, has kept abreast of world affairs. The Lounge discussions, presided over by Mary Lou Loewe, promise the welcome of many new orators for the Blue Room next year.

Dramatic Club

With progress as a key-note of Manhattanville's second century, the Dramatic Club, in its two major productions and Christmas play, reached still greater heights this year. "What Every Woman Knows" (among Manhattanville Thespians, at least) is that there exists in the Little Theater a certain atmosphere that never changes. Whether it emanates from the dust in the prop-room, from the almost-yearly flood in the band-box, or from the crowded back-stage, no one has yet decided. This year, however, the greater part of that spirit came from the good humor, patience and foresightedness of Mother McGuire, Mrs. O'Connell and Ann Lummis. To them and the comradeship and energy they inspired in the rest of the club, we owe such productions as "What Every Woman Knows" and "The Late Christopher Bean."

Essay and English Club

"The Essay" compiles Manhattanville's wealth of literary achievement during the college year. The polish of its finished products belies efforts of publication—a struggle which only adds to their value. In retrospect, we all remember the joy of achievement and the satisfaction of a job well done for the "public" by a competent staff.

As a criterion of college literary progress, the English Club is our recognized authority. Their constant plea for contributions is put over with a comic originality which indicates their far from staid outlook. Yet, the professional touch which stamps this club's every effort is a fitting tribute to the skill of its members and to the able guidance of Mother Williams and its president, Kay Zahronsky.

Newspaper

With their second century the "natives" decided that they would begin to leave very clearly defined footsteps in the sands of time, with nothing less than a newspaper. Now our descendents can have first hand information about the way they lived "way back when."

A little for the reader, a little for the writer, and a lot for those of us who just like to live, has made for a wide appeal. The college loved seeing itself in print, and the sleepier souls were able to keep abreast of the times; in this and many other ways the college newspaper has proved its worth. Our thanks to Molli and its first crew.

Tea Dance and Prom

"Everything in its place!" and on "the country club side" of Manhattanville our vote for first place goes to the Tea Dance and Prom Committees. Under "B.J.'s" knowing and able direction, the Blue Room was set for parties of a friendly and homelike quality that made us proud to be hostesses. The Prom was as gay and light as Spring itself in a glamour-transformed gym. For pleasant memories of softly lighted rooms, rhythmic music, whirling skirts, quiet laughter, we thank the Tea Dance and Prom Committees.

Athletics

The "Manhattanville Girl" is a complete person. She finds relaxation and enjoyment in sports and is often seen in the pool, delivering a smashing serve; or "setting them up" in the bowling alley. In the keen competition of class games we see her fierce class loyalty and her sportsmanship. During the varsity seasons the teamwork essential to success is not limited to the field of play, for whether she wears the player's uniform or helps to "swell the mighty song" it makes no difference. This is her college, this is Manhattanville, let's win!

Athletic Association

Hockey stick and tennis racket are put away; basketball and badminton bird have flown their last, and A.A.'s work is done. The year was exciting, with a highly enthusiastic cheering section competing happily with the players. The varsity hockey team fought through one famous game when both sides, literally in the dark, made valiant passes at an all but invisible ball rather than call the game.

A.A. was always in the foreground and its increasing activity and cheerful efficiency have maintained high athletic standards. It has shown that competition and cooperation can exist side by side; that class rivalries are still sisterly; that the game is fun even for the losers.

To Miss Farmer and Miss Holland we express our thanks for all they have done—for their interest and skill, and, above all, their infinite patience. Mother O'Gorman we thank in a special way for her enthusiastic support.

Noreen and Marion have shown that undaunted leadership can surmount all obstacles, from crippled players and no substitutes to pecuniary and transportation difficulties. They have kept a cheerful sense of humor and brought A.A. through with flying colors.

Candids

We've pursued the "Manhattanville Girl" all over the "Heights" trying to catch her off guard. The result? . . . a Candid Week! In this brief span of time we've seen her pass from glum resignation to undaunted optimism; from studied concentration to irrepressible gaiety. But wherever she is, whatever she does, the "Manhattanville Girl" is true to her college and to the ideals which it inspires.

Thank You

All those whose generous help made the 1948 issue possible.

All the members of the faculty for your interest and cooperation.

Miss Angela Cave for your wonderful gifts—encouragement and advice.

Seniors and Sophomores for your enthusiastic support.

Freshmen especially for all your financial help.

Juniors for your willing collaboration.

Parents and friends for your magnificent response to our appeal for "ads."

Mr. John J. McGuire and T. O'Toole for your helpful suggestions and fine printing.

Mr. Mersereau and Sarony, Inc., for your painstaking and artistic photography.

With grateful appreciation,

THE CLASS OF '49

EDUCATION . . . FIRE PROTECTION

In this era of atomic energy, when our scientists are largely employed in the development of weapons for total destruction, we find solace and satisfaction in knowing that the talents and energies of our organization are constantly employed in the preservation of life and property.

We look to Manhattanville College for the best in education and take pride in the fact that, over the years, automatic sprinklers have been 95.9% effective in over 70,000 fires . . . a record almost equal to Manhattanville's academic standard.

TO ALL OUR FRIENDS IN MANHATTANVILLE COLLEGE OF THE SACRED HEART

Through our ninety-seven years of service, we have helped succeeding generations of your families build security for themselves through savings. We feel that, even though our relationship has been in the realm of business, we are also old friends . . . and as old friends, we want to add our word of greeting on this occasion.
